Winemaking and ageing:

Elaborated from the vineyards of two plots. One, Ribassal, with north orientation is cultivated with Sauvignon Blanc, which helps us to preserve the freshness of the variety. The other plot, Fita, with orientation South and very stony soil, is cultivated with Chardonnay, producing a grape with character.

We harvest both varieties the same day to take advantage of the acidity of the Sauvignon Blanc and the mature character of the Chardonnay. The must of Sauvignon Blanc will be fermented separately, meanwhile the Chardonnay remains in its skins for some hours before its pressing.

The fining of the musts carries out in a natural way, supporting the cold musts during the necessary hours. The fermentation is made in low temperature to preserve the aromatic compounds. Part of the wine proceeding from the variety Chardonnay finishes its fermentation in new French oak barrels. Wine from the barrels and from the tanks is aged with its lees to contribute major complexity, as well as volume and greasiness in mouth.

After two months in barrels, three types of wine are assembled to form the REIXIU and we keep the coupage in tanks up to its bottling in order that the wine reaches the wished harmony.

Stainless steel tanks: part of the wine 5 months Ageing: part of the wine 2 months

Number of bottles: 2.500 bot 750 ml.

TASTING NOTE:

Yellow straw color, clean and brilliant. In nose it is perfumed and complex, with creamy and floral aromas, which coexist with the proceeding ones from white and tropical fruits. In mouth it has a fresh assault, voluminous and persistent, where appears citric and creamy tones.

Dry white wine with character, good acidity and structure, a white elegant wine.
